

Summer Reading Requirements for Rising Fourth Graders

Rising fourth graders are required to read and test on two books over the summer. This summer's reading list is correlated with the fourth grade social studies curriculum. Tests for these books can be found at www.bookadventure.com. If a test is not available, students should write a book report. An outline of important information is attached to help your child write his/her report. Please have your child bring his/her test results and/or book reports on the first day of school.
